DEDICATION

To one whose courage is a challenge; whose gentleness, a comfort; whose God-dependence, an inspiration. To one of that aristocracy of goodness who thinks on the virtue and praise of others.

To a quiet builder of the Kingdom whose life has consistently reflected her Master as the Way, the Truth, and the Life — we affectionately dedicate the 1951 NAUTILUS.

• Mary Kaiser Harris

THE MOTTO on the official seal of Eastern Nazarene College — "Via, Veritas, Vita," — has real significance. These are the words of Jesus. It was He who said, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life." The motto has further meaning since it epitomizes the faith of the founding fathers of E.N.C. The college has sought to be true to her heritage and to make this motto effective in the lives of her students.

Each student is urged to find the "Way"; to accept Christ; to develop a Christian philosophy of life. Christian faith and thought are given a place of prime importance and are the unifying influence of the entire curriculum.

A reverent appreciation of "Truth" is essential. The quest for truth must ever be made fearlessly and with humility.

The ultimate aim is the "Life," the attainment of Christian character. This is most effectively accomplished through constant, intimate association with the members of our faculty.

It is our fervent hope that the motto of E.N.C. will be written in the hearts and lives of our students forever.

IN MEMORIAM

Orval John Nease, D.D.

General Superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene, one-time president of a sister college, loved brother of our former president, Floyd W. Nease; true Christian and impassioned preacher of the Word of God; tender and dauntless in spirit, broad in sympathies and Christ-like in attitudes, counting himself expendable for the cause of holiness — his influence lives on to challenge us all.

FOREWORD

A diploma, a degree—and, ever increasing in value, a host of college-life memories you will take with you from E.N.C.

There have been moments of spiritual inspiration when a consecrated altar has opened the "Way"; moments of intellectual challenge as your teachers have led you in the quest for "Truth"; moments of recreation that have helped you to maintain the well-balanced "Life."

We have endeavored to capture for you some of the familiar moments that exemplify the ideals of Alma Mater—ideals embodied in the motto found on her official seal.

Recorded in these pages is a college. But as you who know her examine your NAUTILUS for '51, we hope that you will realize more than the apparent. For here unwritten, unphotographed is the true spirit of E.N.C.—Via, Veritas, Vita!

DR. GOULD'S MESSAGE

YOU are to be congratulated on your wisdom in selecting for your college course an institution like Eastern Nazarene College, a college avowedly committed to faith in the Christian Gospel and the Christian way of life. In a very real sense the motto of our College expresses the meaning of this commitment. It is based upon the words of our Lord in John 14:6: "I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." Our motto thus becomes a frank acceptance of Jesus Christ as Redeemer, Saviour, and Eternal Lord.

In seeking to make this commitment a real and personal one in the heart and life of each student, the College Church has come to occupy a strategic position. Not only do we meet in chapel services in the church auditorium; but it is under the week-by-week ministry of the Church that great issues are faced, great decisions made, and great experiences entered into. It is our earnest prayer that the meaningful words of the College Seal — "Via, Veritas, Vita" — will be stamped forever upon our hearts as we leave these halls.

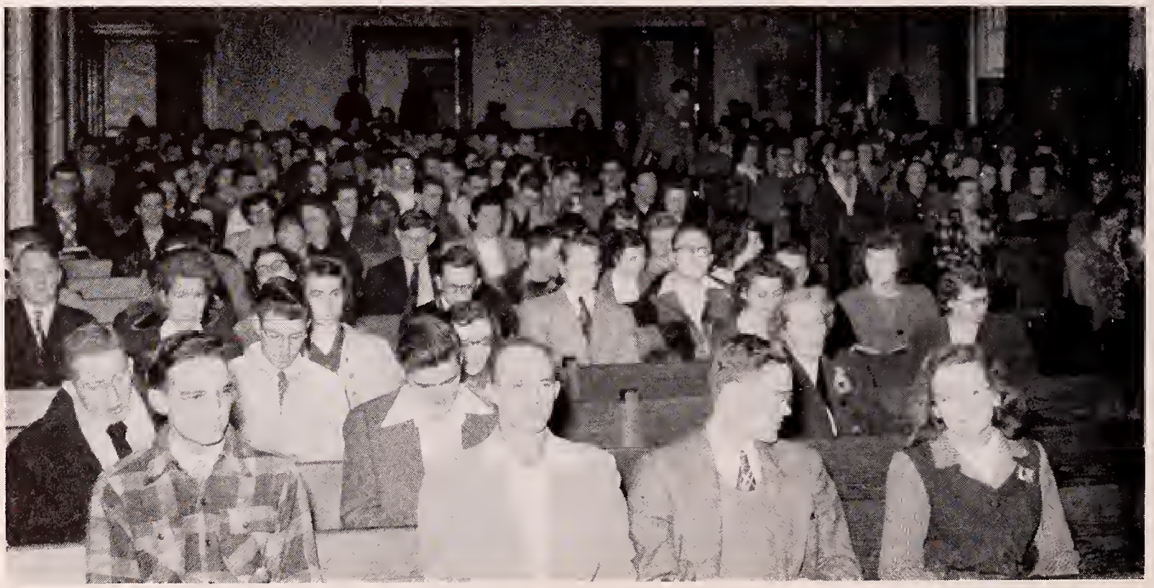
CHAPEL

"Thirty thoughtful minutes" were those spent in chapel each day, as students paused during the morning's busy schedule to listen to missionaries, educators, visiting evangelists and pastors, Christian laymen, and faculty members.

Universal truths and maxims for life were brought to us with freshness of thought and piercing insight by speakers who have walked the way that lies yet before us.

Truly, "the organ prelude became a veil dropped between everyday life and the sanctuary," and though we entered chapel with our burdens and problems, we returned to our duties with the promise ringing in our hearts, "My grace is sufficient for thee."



REV. SAMUEL YOUNG, D.D.

REV. D. I. VANDERPOOL, D.D.

REVIVALISTS

"My desire, to be like Jesus" was the challenge which inspired many of us to seek God's blessing in the revivals and conventions held throughout the year.

E.N.C.-ers and friends from the community filled the new church night after night to listen to the vital sermons of outstanding Christian leaders.

The special spiritual emphasis began in the opening convention with the timely messages of Rev. C. L. Rodda. Other revivalists were General Superintendent D. I. Vanderpool, whose illustrations and messages will never be forgotten; Rev. Guy Nees, who challenged students at the opening convention of the second semester; and General Superintendent Samuel Young, who with keen insight delivered the Gould Memorial Lectures and conducted the spring revival.

MESSIAH

A true source of religious inspiration and hope, Handel's immortal "Messiah" was presented by the combined A Cappella, Meistersinger, and Wollaston Church choirs of more than one hundred and fifteen voices.

This year for the first time the oratorio was rendered in the new college church which was filled to capacity for both performances.

Assisting in the presentation were Mrs. Olive Marple, pianist; Mr. Greg Larkin, organist; and the college orchestra.

Mrs. Esther D. Williamson has annually directed the presentation of this oratorio since it was first given in 1934.

Some of the selections loved and remembered by hundreds include "And the Glory of the Lord", "Every Valley Shall be Exalted", "For Unto Us a Child is Born", and the "Hallelujah Chorus."

The "Messiah" is more than just a presentation made by the choirs. It is a testimony sung from hearts that have experienced that "His Yoke is Easy, and His Burthen is Light."

Evangelistic Association

"Lead me to some soul today" was the emphasis of the Evangelistic Association during the past year. Under the leadership of Harry Rich, a mission program of wide scope was carried out in the rescue missions of Boston. Hardly a night passed without a representative mission group proclaiming the gospel to the lost.

Along with the mission work, the Quincy Bible Class continued with noteworthy success.

Student Ministerial Association

Called by Christ, the student ministers banded together under the leadership of Wesley Stinson. Through lectures and discussions, the group endeavored to gain information and inspiration that would be of value to them in gospel work.

Outstanding among the meetings was that with General Superintendent D. I. Vanderpool, whose practical suggestions will long be remembered by the ministerial aspirants.

Prospective Missionary Society

"One thousand dollars for missions."

By selling Christmas cards and sponsoring various other projects, the members of the Prospective Missionary Society worked steadily toward their goal for the year.

Those students who are now preparing for future service on the mission field met once each week, under the leadership of Rosemarie Ballard, to share news from the fields, to pray for the needs of others, and to receive helpful instruction from special speakers.

College Missionary Society

The College Missionary Society presented foreign missions in a vital way under the leadership of David Cubie, president. Weekly prayer meetings featured special speakers who were either directly connected with missionaries or who were keenly interested in the work.

Incorporated into talks were actual letters from missionaries on the field. This close contact with foreign workers promoted a real interest in missions.

GRADUATES IN THEOLOGY

E.N.C.'s GRADUATES IN THEOLOGY are seeking advanced preparation for a life more useful and purposeful. For them Commencement was only the beginning. Having recognized the message of Christ and the Church to "Go . . . into all the world . . .", they are striving to incorporate its challenge into their personal lives as well as their preaching and teaching ministries by a heartfelt response — "Here am I, send me !"

PHI DELTA LAMBDA

The Beta Chapter of the Phi Delta Lambda, national honor society of Nazarene colleges, exists to encourage scholarship among the graduates and undergraduates of E.N.C.

Vernon T. Bugh, M.D., a psychiatrist from Boston, was the speaker this year at the annual chapel program sponsored by the organization.

A panel discussion on "The Christian in Graduate School" and a banquet for the undergraduates in the Honor society were other projects of the group.

Scholarship loans are granted by the society to worthy students doing graduate work.

For the first time in the history of Nazarene colleges an Educational Conference of administrators of the colleges of the Church of the Nazarene was held on the E.N.C. campus October 11-13.

Purposing to discuss methods, problems, objectives, and future plans of Nazarene colleges, the presidents, deans, and business managers met in separate groups during the sessions proper. Meetings of presidents with deans, and of presidents with business managers were conducted also.

Recognition of the common objective and directive of all the colleges represented at this gathering marks the beginning of tangible inter-school co-operation in the educational work of the Church of the Nazarene.

SENIORS

Demobilization, peace talks, United Nations — this was 1947, and we '51-ers worried about initiation, not headlines.

The Freshman-Sophomore outing lingers in our memory; we forgot rhetoric and European history, the course which is no more.

We saw the campus grow with the building of Memorial Hall and the basement unit church.

"Jaunty Juniors", we ambushed the seniors as they stepped from the Greyhound bus. But we became more serious as we made our motto, "In His Steps."

Our senior year has been a climax of class activities. We stepped into inevitable comprehensives, wore our gowns proudly for the first time, paraded, played and ate on Junior-Senior Day. College life ended with "Alma Mater" in Quincy High School Auditorium.

Mobilization, war talks, Korea. We go out into it all "In His Steps."

WHO'S WHO

Elected to membership in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" for 1950-51 are seven seniors from E.N.C. Of the seven, two are philosophy majors; two, literature; one, history; one, music; and one, economics.

The basis on which these students were selected was character, scholastic achievement, leadership, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society.

This organization recognizes outstanding students from six hundred colleges, printing a brief biography of each member in their annual publication, which serves as an official directory for personnel managers and business executives.

Summing up all honors scholastic and social, election to "Who's Who" is the recognition of a well-rounded college career.

SENIOR RECITALISTS

Talent and persevering practice combined in the senior group of music and speech students to produce a series of outstanding performances.

Emily Bigelow's piano and organ recital is well remembered, especially her playing of the third movement of Mendelssohn's "Concerto in G Minor" and the "Three Fantastic Dances" by Shostakovich. Lois Andrews assisted with readings.

Shakespeare's HAMLET came to life in John Gardner's performance of soliloquies from this great tragedy. Appropriate organ accompaniment created an effective background.

"Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark" with flute accompaniment was outstanding in Grace Oddo's voice recital. Her listeners were stirred by Handel's "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth." Assisting at the piano was Mrs. Olive Marple.

Varied selections were well interpreted by Audrey Parker. The dramatic monologue, "A Tale," and the humorous story of "The Third Ingredient" appealed to her listeners.

Alma Washburn's rendition of "Impromptu" by Schubert was excellent in her piano and organ recital, as well as the second movement of Mendelssohn's "Concerto in G Minor." Professor Edith Cove accompanied at the organ.

SENIORS

Restless, collegiate (we thought), untamed, we '49-ers rushed on campus with the expectancy of the century-old gold-rushers.

Freshman week was guinea-pigged on us and we made it work. That first week we were kings; the next, pawns to the lofty Sophs.

But we had our chance in our Sophomore year as we led the Freshman class by the nose through initiation and the Blue Hills outing.

"Introducing Miles Standish"; "Let's go over that march again"; "Party at the Pearsall's"; "I never miss Junior prayer meeting" — these were the signs that we were upperclassmen.

"Ye shine as lights," our motto, is the answer we give to a shadowing world.

INITIATION

Despite our threatened rebellion against initiation, we bowed to the tradition of the elders, the Sophomores.

After a few weeks on campus, we became genuine E.N.C.-ers. It was fun to enter into all the activities of the college, taking advantage of each opportunity that E.N.C. afforded us.

Sophisticated sophomores, we watched a little enviously as the upperclassmen left for their Junior-Senior Banquet in the midst of shouts and the blaring of horns, but anticipated the following year when we as upperclassmen would be part of the annual excursion that climaxed the excitement of Junior-Senior Day.

We ended our sophomore year with a deeper appreciation for E.N.C. — not only as a college but also as a spirit.

FRESHMEN

Somehow we managed to arrive at the campus this fall despite Korea and high school weariness. Ours was a memorable tin-can, cold-cream, and Model T initiation.

Rush day baffled us, for never before had we been teased, pampered, begged, or mauled so much.

Uncertainty yielded to an air of confidence as we resolved the perennial problems that never fail to perplex a Freshman Week novice.

We realized a sense of belonging when we shared our first chapel service.

Anxiety replaced our characteristic exuberance as final examinations drew ominously near.

Move-up day proved to be one of personal inventory. We had all but completed the first year of our college career — a year marked by spiritual growth, scholastic achievement, and loads of fun!

Though smaller than ever, the academy group again enjoyed many good times — Tuesday evening club meetings, a Christmas social at the home of Mrs. Madeline Nease, Monday prayer meetings led by chaplain Lorne MacMillan. Who will forget the fun at the annual Merrymount breakfast? There was plenty of good food — and hearty appetites to take care of the eggs and bacon!

President David Taylor and Vice-president Margaret Davidson, under the guidance of Mr. Laurence Mullen, faculty adviser, led the group this year.

A glance through the new Student Council files reveals that the year was a busy one for the group who represented E.N.C.'s student body organization.

The council's project for the year was the reconstruction and extension of the radio studio. Equipping the council office and revising the constitution of the student body organization, along with countless other "odd jobs," kept the council "on the go."

In order to establish a closer relationship between the main student body and the council, a bulletin was issued bi-monthly, keeping students informed about council business.

Under the enthusiastic leadership of Vice-President Emma Stephey, the "Hiram and Miranda" fall party, the "open house" Christmas party, and the formal spring party were socially successful.

The NAUTILUS office is precisely neat now. But somehow the bare desk tops and empty files remind us of other days . . .

First came September conferences, meetings of high secretiveness when major decisions were made. Soon a surge of candids, write-ups, and ad contracts flooded the office. Rewriters employed red pencils unsparingly; typists pounded away until their fingers were numb; the proof-reader ferreted out cliches; the business staff counted its pennies closely.

The Book began to be a personality; we coaxed it along and watched it as it grew. And even at four a.m. — still typing, sorting snapshots, developing film — we worked willingly, knowing that the Book was your E.N.C., 1951.

The once-stacked desks are bare now; but in each corner of the NAUTILUS office lurks a memory. We will always treasure the hours spent in making for you the 1951 NAUTILUS.

Co-sponsoring a current events forum, adding new equipment, renovating the office, and all the time maintaining a strong student voice were achievements of the 1950-51 "Campus Camera."

Active reader interest and participation were stimulated by the addition of a "Letters to the Editor" column. It enabled students to air their views and gripes about campus situations — and the "Camera."

Another new activity was the co-sponsoring of a monthly current events forum, with the purpose of creating among the students a more intelligent reading and thinking about world affairs.

The entire staff worked co-operatively and diligently to produce a worthy addition to the files in the form of Volume XXI of the "Campus Camera."

"Be as similar to standard broadcasting as possible." This, the golden rule of WENC, is achieved through four objectives — first, to give a practical application of academic knowledge in a student program; second, to present both educational and entertaining programs; third, to make worthy use of leisure time; fourth, to elevate the social, academic, spiritual, and cultural standards of E.N.C.

WENC, in its remodeled studios and through its energetic staff, presents seventeen hours of broadcasting weekly.

DELTA

DELTA 83
DELTA

The "old-salts" rallied the second largest number of freshmen to sign at the Delta Wharf.

The get-in-there-and-fight spirit did not win all the games for the Delta lads and lassies; nevertheless it gave them a year of plucky sportsmanship. A dash of color was added to the games by the cheerleaders' new jackets.

Down, down, down to the land of seaweed and mermaids, the Deltas led E.N.C.-ers to Davy Jones' deep sea locker on program night.

In the spring, the Delta-Zeta boat took campus landlubbers away out into the ocean as a gay finale to the college year.

"In all thy ways acknowledge Him" — was the mood of the Delta prayer meetings.

ΣΔK

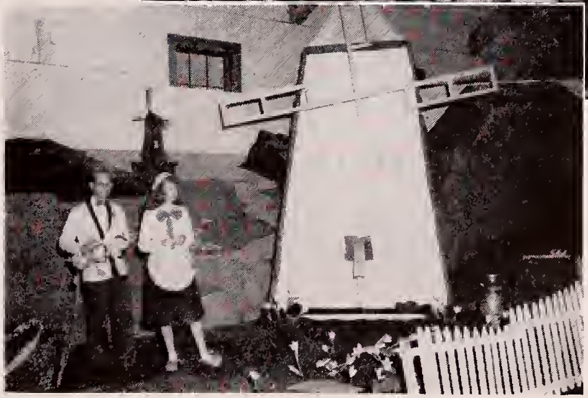
This year the blue ribbon society showed its colors.

The Bluebirds tied with the Sigmas for the football championship. Convinced that to be a Kappa is to be something special, the team distinguished itself on the shiny new gym floor.

Ever patriotic to society and country, the Kappas sang in a panorama of American sectional history.

The winter outing was all sport for the active Kappas.

Beginning by "Dutching" the Freshmen at the blue and white windmill, the Kappas have seen a year marked by success — in sports, fun, and prayer meetings.



KAPPA

"Plenty of surprises with the Sigmas." Smiling Sam had the most new students at his Jack-in-the-box.

Every Sigma was busy throughout the year — that's Sigma policy.

The Sams tied with the Kappas in the pigskin fight and the Sals kept pace by winning the volleyball championship.

Memorable moments were the initial appearance of the enthusiastic cheerleaders, pepped up by new outfits and catchy yells; and the surprise showing of the fellows' new basketball uniforms.

The prayer meetings in the church "L" were lively and varied with a large turnout of society members. Another year the Sigma organization has been everyman's society.

The Brahmins of the campus fell from their first estate this year. But the champion zest is still in the green and gold.

"The Greatest Society on Earth" attracted a score of hardy Freshmen to the "big top." The new blood gave the Zetas a loud cheering section — something new.

Popular music — or classical? Berlin or Brahms? The Zetas tried to improve campus taste in their unique musical program.

Despite frequent trips to the rail, the Zetas agreed enthusiastically that their spring boat excursion was a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

Interest in the society prayer meeting mounted during the year to help the spiritual tone of the Zetas.

The Zetas have shown they can lose games without losing their natural royalty.

DEAN MUNRO

Honor Society

Personal thanks from the Dean of the College to the students whose names appear on the Dean's Honor List. The Dean, so they say, is "the person who tries to make the college, scholastically speaking, half as good as the President says it is!" These students help her.

Thanks, too, from the college. For the college also has its responsibility, to uphold educational standards at the level sanctioned by accrediting associations throughout the country. These students help. And thanks from every E.N.C. student who takes pride in attending an accredited college. These make it possible to offer courses of standard quality.

They have not asked our thanks; we believe they have looked higher. We know them pretty well. They are, in the main, young people who have taken seriously the obligation of two — or five — talent stewardship, and have resolved to love God with all their minds. They will not give Him for His use 50% or even 75% of the man or woman they can be — they will give 100%.

Literature Club

Ezra Pound or Edgar Guest? Modern poetry or modern verse?

The Literature Club sought to appreciate the best in current writings under the leadership of Betty Chalfant, president; and Evangeline Smith, program chairman.

Keeping the bulletin board filled with timely articles and conducting a tour of local literary shrines were activities enjoyed by the group.

Music Club

Flute duets and piano selections from Chopin introduced the musical ability of new members at the talent program.

The "Bachs" and "Haydns" strove to encourage an appreciation of good music at E.N.C.

High-lighting the year's activities was an evening program given by Mrs. F. Addison Porter, wife of the composer of several New England Conservatory piano books used at E.N.C., and former instructor of Professor Edith Cove, who was a Conservatory student.

Bowne Philosophical Society

To learn truth, live truth, and speak truth is the motto of the modern Platos and Aristotles in the society.

To help discover principles of correct thinking about life's true values, club members presented meditation reports on religion and philosophy.

At one of the meetings, Professor George Delp spoke on the relation of the church to philosophy in history.

Psychology Club

In connection with a study of abnormal individuals, the club sponsored a trip to the state mental institution at Danvers, after which members reported on different patients whom they had visited in the clinic.

As a special speaker for the club, an E.N.C. graduate now teaching in a Quincy elementary school presented typical psychological problems of second-grade children.

Las Estrellas

Senors and senoritas corresponded with Latin American pen pals this year through the co-operation of three Guatemalans and a Puerto Rican in the club.

Among other activities, members viewed a film entitled "South of the Sun," which showed the habits and customs of our friends across the border.

Leading Las Estrellas were two Spanish-speaking students, Carmen Gonzalez, president; and Ricardo Barrueto, vice-president.

Astronomy Society

North Star or Dog Star?

E.N.C.'s newest club was organized this year in order to further the knowledge of those interested in the sciences immediately related to the celestial universe.

Among other activities, the society attended various lectures at Harvard University, observed phases of the lunar eclipse, and studied the outstanding constellations in our solar system.

Future Teachers of America

At the Christmas party, class was called to attention by a typical schoolmarm in a country schoolhouse. "Pupils" traveling from Munro hall warmed themselves in front of the pot-bellied stove.

The Future Teachers was the first group to see Professor Dixon's slides of National Parks in the West.

Special interest in promoting a closer friendship among teachers led the club, as a project for this year, to form an organization of E.N.C. graduates now teaching.

Biology Association

An arrangement of cattails, fall leaves, and various moss-grasses won first prize in the centerpiece contest conducted by the club. Natural specimens were gathered from Merrymount Park in connection with the association's purpose to cultivate a deeper appreciation of nature.

Making anatomical and botanical charts was a project of the club.

Societas Prae-Medica

Purposing to acquaint themselves with the nature and problems of medical training, the pre-medical students viewed films on surgery and listened to an interesting discussion on public health.

Early in the year two local physicians presented a review on the pro's and con's of socialized medicine.

E.N.C.'s nurse, Ruby Friend, and her assistant efficiently directed the activities of the club this year.

Chemistry Club

Especially desirous of gratifying their interest in chemistry as a science and an industry, students visited the food research "labs" at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Monsanto Chemical Company, and the Lowell Institute.

Lectures and discussions for the benefit of the group were conducted at M. I. T. by a branch of the American Chemical Association, at which time members saw a cyclotron.

Rover Crew

"Be prepared" —

Following a program of scout leadership, the "Rovers" camped in the Blue Hills, practiced scout skills, and learned first aid.

Several crew members served as counselors for a Boy Scout troop that camped overnight at Merrymount Park.

In the spring the group toured Quincy and Wollaston Bays under the direction of a local Sea Scout troop.

House Council

If candy consumed is an indication of success, Open House 1950 could not be surpassed. The new Dug-out and men's prayer room were again inspected by many admiring visitors.

What was announced as a "meeting of all girls in the parlor" turned out to be a Halloween party, complete with jack-o'-lanterns and spine-tingling spooks.

Capably supervising these activities, as well as maintaining quiet study hours and arranging after-dinner prayer meetings, was President Viola Eshleman.

A Cappella Choir

In practice and in performance, the A Cappella choir sang unto the Lord with heartfelt earnestness as well as musical correctness.

High-lighting a full year were the presentations of Handel's "Messiah" and the 3000-mile tour of the Eastern Educational Zone in the spring.

The choir was more than repaid for its hours of persevering practice by the warm responses accorded them by attentive audiences.

Meistersingers

"With my song will I praise Him."

True believers in these words of the Psalmist, the Meistersingers assisted in the two presentations of excerpts from Handel's "Messiah," and gave a spring recital.

"Almighty God, Who hast given us Grace" and "Sanctus," selections given in the spring performance, will be remembered by all who attended.

Director

College Orchestra

"Maestro" Greg Larkin led his twenty orchestra members in one of E.N.C.'s most active musical years.

This organization presented two concerts, in the fall and spring, besides appearing in the "Messiah" and the commencement exercises.

In the practice sessions the members had an incentive for work, as in each section of the orchestra there was competition for "first chair."

Blue Hills

Situated on a wooded slope overlooking the Ponkapog Pond, stands a group of rustic log buildings which are familiarly known as E.N.C.'s Blue Hills Camp. The purpose of the camp is twofold. First, it serves as an adult field training center for young men from the college and Quincy who wish to become scoutmasters. Second, the camp serves as a field station, laboratory, and rendezvous for biology field trips.

The Blue Hills area is an ideal outdoor laboratory, for within a relatively small location it contains about eighty-five per cent of the ecological conditions to be found in this latitude. Permission has been obtained from the Metropolitan District Police to make collections of animals and plants in this area.

In the past two years students have built a log trail across the bog in order to further their study and observations. The most recent development has been an outdoor fire circle with a large stone fireplace, speaker's platform, and log bleachers built into the ascending slope. This is used for outdoor classrooms as well as scout campfire programs. Occasionally faculty groups, scout councils and biology associations enjoy an evening of fellowship and food in the great out-of-doors.

The tutorial groups are organized in an effort to promote informal discussions under the careful supervision of upperclassmen and to supplement the large lecture session. Each student is encouraged to express his own opinions and views.

Individual work in the laboratory, supplementing the formal class lecture enables each student to put into practice the theories which he has learned.

Many lower division courses are conducted as formal lecture sessions, dealing with the basic principles involved in the study of the subject under consideration.

Small informal classes which characterize upper division study provide invaluable personal attention to the needs and problems of each individual student.

Class Feature

"N Club"

After three semesters of steady, outstanding display of athletic ability and sportsmanship, one may reach the zenith of athletic honor at E.N.C. and be elected to the "N" club.

However, the "N" club is far more than an athletic honor society; it represents the guiding, sponsoring force behind all society sports.

Each year the "N" club chooses a worthwhile project for the advancement of the athletic program at E.N.C. This year, under the able counseling of Professor J. R. Naylor and President Russell Bailey, the "N" club in conjunction with the college purchased a much-needed electric combination time-clock and scoreboard. This addition has been a major step in facilitating the sports program at E.N.C.

ALL STAR

The outstanding events of the season for the 1951 All Star teams were two games with Gordon College.

In the first fellows' game, on E.N.C.'s newly refinished court, the Gordon sharpshooters defeated E.N.C. 60-37. Recognizing the need for more practice together, Coach Steve Nease put the teams through the paces in preparation for the second game on Gordon's home court. However, the lack of regular outside competition once again proved to be the Red and White's downfall as Gordon snuffed out E.N.C.'s high hopes by a 52-40 score.

The E.N.C. girls also took it on the chin in both games, losing them 44-14 and 30-13 respectively.

PHOTOGRAPHER . . .

The responsibility associated with such a title is no small task.

A College Annual without photographs would indeed be dull.

Therefore, we have tried to fulfill our photographic assignment with the careful attention necessary to assure you a pleasant and lasting memory of your days at E. N. C.

ESPECIALLY FOR YOU . . .

- The making of College Annuals takes far longer than you think.
- The co-ordination of photography, art work, engraving, printing and binding was entrusted to our skilled craftsmen who have been making college annuals for nearly a quarter of a century.
- Together with the staff who have served you so well, we too share in the satisfaction of completing this book . . .
